Toyota Hilux 2.4 Z GR Sport Diesel Turbo - 01/2024

General Overview:

The 2024 Toyota Hilux 2.4 Z GR Sport Diesel Turbo is the sport-enhanced version of Toyota's legendary pickup, developed with influence from Toyota Gazoo Racing. This model blends the proven durability and utility of the Hilux with aggressive styling cues and upgraded suspension components, offering a tougher and more athletic presence on and off the road.

Performance and Efficiency:

Under the hood, the Hilux GR Sport is powered by a 2.4-liter four-cylinder turbocharged diesel engine delivering 150 horsepower and 400 Nm of torque. It's paired with a 6-speed automatic transmission and a part-time 4WD system. GR Sport-specific tuning includes revised suspension and sportier damping for more composed handling. Average fuel consumption is around 7.5 to 8.0 liters per 100 kilometers, balancing efficiency with capable diesel performance.

Interior and Features:

The interior of the GR Sport variant is styled with sport-focused elements such as GR logos, contrast stitching, and unique seat trim. The cabin includes a touchscreen multimedia system with Apple CarPlay and Android Auto compatibility, a rearview camera, dual-zone climate control, and a multifunction steering wheel. Depending on the trim, the upholstery may be leather or a sporty fabric/leather combo, enhancing both comfort and aesthetics.

Safety and Driver Assistance:

This Hilux comes equipped with a full suite of safety features including ABS, EBD, vehicle stability control (VSC), hill-start assist control (HAC), and dual front airbags. Additional driver assistance systems such as downhill assist and trailer sway control may also be included, ensuring safe and confident driving in all conditions.
